

BRIDGE TO SUCCESS

The Bridge to Success Capacity Campaign will fund two new programs that remove barriers when it comes to job training and housing. Simply put, our young people will have stable housing while preparing for long-term careers.

Covey Academy

A new Vocational Training Center with 19 on-site student housing units. This state-of-the-art center will offer credentialed training and individualized support so that vulnerable youth can find meaningful careers. Embedded partners—including businesses, non-profits and state partners—will integrate vocational training, apprenticeships, education, life skills development, workforce placement, and housing.

Covey Lofts

22 new apartment units for young adults who are experiencing homelessness and human trafficking. Residents will stay as long as they need up to the age of 25.

They will have full access to the comprehensive support offered next door at our Youth Engagement Center. Services include employment, education, case management, counseling, health care, recreation, and access to Covey Academy.

Who will this help?

Covey Lofts and Covey Academy will be available to our state's most vulnerable young people who are experiencing homelessness, human trafficking and exploitation.

Our Goal

To raise $22 million by 2024 for the timely completion of Covey Academy and Covey Lofts. Every young person we serve—over 1,000 per year—will have access to advanced training and the 41 new units of studio apartment housing. With your help, we can start housing young people and job training summer of 2022.

About Covenant House Alaska

Since 1988, Covenant House Alaska has built bridges to hope for over 35,000 young people facing homelessness and survivors of trafficking through unconditional love, absolute respect, and relentless support. Our doors are open 24/7 and our high-quality programs are designed to empower young people to rise and overcome adversity, today and in the future.

Last year, CHA provided services to 1,090 young people, and 504 of these youth accessed 39,000 safe nightly stays.

A Note from CEO Alison Kear

“During the pandemic, our partners came to us and said, ‘if you had the resources, are there services that you would change?’ Well, one of those is bringing together education and employment with housing. With our partners, we’ve been able to envision a space where young people gain skills to not only get jobs—but advance in careers. It is a campus model where our relationships with young people can help them be the best versions of themselves.

Our youth have always been capable. They have always been worth it. They have been and always will be our future leaders. That has kept me going for 25 years.”

You can help Bridge to Success become a reality for thousands of vulnerable young people for years to come. Thank you for helping build Alaska’s next generation of leaders.
